

What is Civic Addressing?

Civic Addressing is the system of giving a unique number and road name to a building or property, with the intention of making it easier to locate.

A civic address includes a unit number, when needed, a civic number, a street name and type.

It is the intent of the Sunshine Coast Regional District (SCRD) to assign every occupied building a civic address. This includes residential dwellings and businesses. If you have not yet received a civic address for your building please contact the SCRD Property Information and Mapping Services (PIMS) Division at 604-885-6805.

Why do I need a Civic Address?

The purpose of your civic address is to provide an easy, visible reference for Emergency Services.

You also require a civic address for mail delivery, utility hook-ups, telephone service and other deliverable services.

How is a Civic Address Determined?

The numbering system is based on a one number increase every four meters along a road. Even numbers are typically on the north or east side of the road, and odd numbers are typically on the south or west side of the road. This means that if your address is 1000 My Way and your neighbour's address is 1004 My Way, your driveways are approximately 16 meters apart on the same side of the road. If your neighbour's address is 1003 My Way, your driveways are approximately 12 meters apart on opposite sides of the road.

The Sunshine Coast Regional District uses road names provided by the Ministry of Transportation and Infrastructure and local governments.

Your civic address does not ensure the provision of fire protection services.
